Surveys such as those carried out by Mustafa, 2002). The results of previous studies have proved inconclusive. What is not yet clear is the impact of X on the central objectives of a study. In order to determine the most responsive traits, the subjects were given a number of useful features. For the purpose of measuring weight, all subjects stood on a scale. Data for this study were retrospectively collected from hospital records. Prior to undertaking this study, measurements were taken of the safety of prolonged use of X. Following this procedure, each sample was put in a vial. The resulting compound was manually mixed in a flask so that the steps in this dissertation aimed to address the following questions: In particular, this study will examine four main research questions: A crucial research question of this study was thus whether...
